Natchez Trace State Resort Park was named for the famous "Natchez to Nashville" highway, an important wilderness road during the early 18th century. A western spur of The Trace ran through a portion of what is now the park. Present day administration of this area is shared by the Tennessee Division of State Parks, Tennessee Division of Forestry, and the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency. The area not only provides recreation but managed hunting as well.

There is no shortage of recreational opportunities for guests at Natchez Trace. Visitors may take part in a variety of activities from mountain biking and backcountry camping to archery and picnicking. There are also ball fields, basketball courts, tennis courts and many other sporting activities available.

Natchez Trace is located in Carroll, Henderson, and Benton counties in West Tennessee 40 miles northeast of Jackson and six miles northeast of Lexington on Interstate 40, halfway between Nashville and Memphis. Main Entrance on Interstate 40 Exit 116, Natchez Trace Park Exit.

Access Fees may apply. Call park for details.
